SECTION 18 – Youth Exhibits

SCHEDULE 2022

Class 4: Handwriting

This class will be judged in two sections:

4A Years Seven and Eight

4B Years Nine and Ten

1. Use A4 blue-lined paper.
2. Text is to be handwritten in black or blue pen on every second line.
3. The margin may either be preprinted on the blue-lined paper or handwritten in black or blue pen.
4. The student's name, school and year level must be clearly written on the back of the handwriting entry.
5. Punctuation and spelling are very important, however, the standard of the handwriting will ultimately determine First Place.

Handwrite the following text based on the theme The International Year of Basic Sciences for Sustainable Development by UN

2022 The International Year of Basic Sciences for Sustainable Development by UN

For advances in areas like medicine, agriculture, water resources, energy, and the environment, basic science research is essential. These same areas cover the spectrum of the UN sustainable development goals as well. While all the goals require scientific inputs to varying degrees, some goals, such as health and well-being, affordable and clean energy, and climate action, are directly linked to scientific advances.

"Every day, we use very basic sciences results, without even knowing it. Your smartphone alone contains a battery, that wouldn't exist without a basic understanding of electrochemistry; a touchscreen and a lot of transistors that rely on our understanding of the moves of electrons in solid materials; applications that are powered by mathematical algorithms, etc. And where clean water is guaranteed at the tap, you can thank chemists and microbiologists," said Luc Allemand, IYBSSD general secretary, to the science journal História, Ciências, Saúde-Manguinhos .
